ACIS 2010

21st Australasian Conference on Information Systems

Brisbane, Australia, 1-3 December 2010

Jointly organised by

Information Systems Program	UQ Business School
Faculty of Science and Technology	Faculty of Business, Economics and Law
Queensland University of Technology	The University of Queensland

The Australasian Conference on Information Systems (ACIS) is the premier conference in Australasia for Information Systems academics and professionals, covering technical, organisational, business and social issues in the application of Information Technology. In 2010, the ACIS Conference will be jointly organized by Queensland University of Technology (QUT) and The University of Queensland.

The event will take place at the QUT Gardens Point Campus. The campus is located in the Central Business District of Brisbane, the fastest growing city in Australia. With 1,7 mil. people, Brisbane offers all the facilities and infrastructure of a global hub for technology and tourism.

Conference Theme:

ACIS 2010 will be dedicated to the definition and establishment of Information Systems as a discipline of high impact for the scientific community and IS professionals. The focus will be on approaches that facilitate the identification of research questions of significant relevance that are studied following sound research methodologies and lead to results of measureable impact. Thus, the theme for ACIS 2010 will be:

Information Systems: Defining and Establishing a High Impact Discipline

Australasian Conference
on Information Systems

Australasian Conference
on Information Systems

ACIS 2010 will be organized in conference tracks and this Call invites Information Systems academics and professionals to submit proposals for conference tracks. A track is ideally chaired by three people of which one is an academic based in Australasia, one track chair is an IS academic of international standing based overseas and one track chair is an IS practitioner with credentials in the proposed topic of the conference track. Please note that this track chair composition is desired, but not mandated.

Each proposal for a conference track should summarise on three pages

- theme of the proposed conference track
- description of the track and its alignment with the conference theme
- significance of the proposed track and its coverage at related outlets
- a list of tentative associate editors (5-10) who will recruit reviewers and oversee the entire paper review and acceptance process
- potential journal Special Issues or awards (e.g. for best paper in the track)
- related track record of the track chairs

Submitted track proposals will be independently reviewed by three members of the conference committee. Preference will be given to tracks that clearly

- address a topic of high relevance in academia and practice
- provide evidence that the associate editors include global thought leaders
- demonstrate a proven track record in organizing tracks or similar events

Proposals should be submitted in PDF form to the ACIS 2010 Program Chairs.
